

EMN INFORM

Applicable fees for issuance of residence permits to third-country nationals

1. INTRODUCTION

Residence permits are authorisations by the authorities of a Member State allowing third-country nationals to reside legally in its territory.¹

This EMN Inform provides an overview of the applicable fees for issuance of residence permits to third-country nationals (TCNs) as of September 2014. It is based on information collected from 24 EU Member States and Norway².

The Inform particularly examines fees under a number of EU Directives, which are outlined in Section 4. Please note that Denmark, Ireland and the United Kingdom have not opted into the Directives stated in this Inform.

2. KEY POINTS TO NOTE

- ★ The fees that apply for the issuance of residence permits vary significantly across Member States. The methodology for the composition of fees is usually dependent on the cost incurred in the processing, manufacturing and issuing of the documents.
- ★ With regard to the overall fee levels, the highest fees are in place in Greece (up to €900), the Netherlands (up to €861) and Finland (up to €540), while the lowest overall levels are reported in Hungary (ca.€33), Luxembourg (€50) and Estonia (€63.91). In Belgium, overall levels are low as well (basic fee amounts at ~€15); however the amounts provided represent manufacturing costs only, which may be complemented by local taxes³ applied by certain municipalities. In Belgium, the same basic fee applies for the issuance of all residence permits, regardless of the type.

- ★ In 8 Member States, first permit fees are higher than fees for renewal of residence permits (DE, FI, FR, HU, LT, MT, PT, SK).
- ★ Express issuance is available in five Member States for a higher fee (BE, BG, LV, LT, SI).
- ★ Reduced fees are in place in the majority of Member States and Norway for children, students or pensioners.
- ★ Some Member States have made efforts to cut red-tape. For example, in France, a 'one-stop-shop' procedure⁴ was introduced to speed up and simplify the process of issuing a residence permit to labour migrants who are not subject to market tests.

² Ad-Hoc Query No 2014.543 on Fees for issuance of residence permits to third-country nationals launched by LU EMN NCP and COM on 18th March 2014 and Ad-Hoc Query No 2014.544 on Applicable fees for residence permits launched on by NL NCP on 20 March 2014

³ The Law concerning taxes on residence for foreigners do not allow taxes which are not comparable to those requested from Belgian nationals for the issuance of identity cards.

⁴ Please note that the Single Permit Directive (2011/98/EU) introduces a single application procedure for issuing a single permit for third-country nationals to reside for the purpose of work in the territory of a Member State, in order to simplify the procedures for their admission and to facilitate the control of their status;

★ A number of EMN NCPs have confirmed that the fee levels do not differ depending on the duration of the residence permit (BE, CZ, EE, ES, HU, LV, LT, LU, NL, PT, SK). In the Netherlands, for example, fees are not related to the length of the residence permits. For instance, a residence permit for family reunification is granted to a maximum of 5 years and fees amount to €228 (€ 53 in case of a minor), regardless of whether the period of validity is 1 year or 5 years. In contrast, fees can differ depending on the duration of the residence permit in EL, DE and FR. In Greece, initial fees and renewal fees range depending on the number of years of validity of the residence permit. Similarly in Germany, fees can slightly vary depending whether the residence permit is issued for one or more years. In France, higher fees are in place for renewal of some residence permits depending on the duration of the extension (one or several years).⁵

★ However, the period of validity of residence permits may vary across countries, which could limit the comparability of the fees. For example, in the Netherlands, residence permits for students are granted for the duration of the entire study.

★ Only fees for residence permits are part of this Inform. Additional costs, such as fees for visa to enter the Member State and for civic integration are not included.

3. OVERVIEW OF RESIDENCE PERMITS ISSUED IN 2013

The issuance of residence permits varies considerably by duration and reason in Member States, depending on the migration patterns and trends experienced.

Table 1 depicts Eurostat statistics on the first residence permits⁶ in a descending order for total first residence permits.

⁵ In France, higher fees for renewal of some residence permits depending on the duration of the extension (one or several years):
 - Student residence permits: Renewal fee: 49€ for one year or 77€ if the permit is valid for several years.
 - Permits issued for the purpose of research issued in accordance with Directive 2005/71/EC: Renewal fee: 106€ for one year or 200€ if the permit is valid for several years.
 - EU Blue Cards: Renewal fee: 106€ for one year or 200€ if the permit is valid for several years.

In 2013, 2,346,607 first residence permits were issued to third-country nationals in the European Union.⁷ The largest share (29%) of residence permits was issued for other reasons, followed by family reasons (29%), remunerated activities (23 %) and education reasons (20%) – see Figure 1 below.

Notes: Other reasons include first residence permits issued to persons granted refugee and humanitarian status; residence permits issued to victims of trafficking in human beings under Directive 2004/81/EC and residence permits issued to unaccompanied minor as defined in Article 2(i) of Directive 2004/83/EC (non-asylum related).

The total number of all valid residence permits that were held by TCNs at the end of 2013 was over 18 million⁸, the largest number of which were in Italy (3,885,497), followed by Germany (3,542,944) and Spain (2,705,144).

The United Kingdom does not operate a system of residence permits. The Home Office data on passenger arrivals, visas, extensions and asylum processes is used to compile data for the UK's equivalent systems⁹. Based on this, in 2012, the United Kingdom issued 631,940 residence permits. Furthermore, the total number of valid permits held by TCNs in the United Kingdom was 1,630,322 at the end of 2012.

In terms of residence permits issued to specific categories of TCNs, the total number issued with a long-term residence status in 2012 was 7,153,323. While in 2013, a total number of 12,850 EU Blue Cards have been issued this figure amounted at 3,664 EU Blue Cards in 2012¹⁰. Denmark, Ireland and United Kingdom do not issue EU Blue Cards.

4. FEES FOR ISSUANCE OF RESIDENCE PERMITS PROVIDED FOR IN THE EU ACQUIS

The EU acquis contains provisions for the issuance of residence permits to a number of categories of third-country nationals, as outlined below.

a. EU long-term residence permits

Council Directive 2003/109/EC concerning the status of third-country nationals who are long-term residents determines the terms for issuing and withdrawing long-term resident status granted by a Member State in relation to third-country nationals legally residing in its territory and the rights pertaining thereto. In particular, Article 8.2 of the Directive foresees that Member States issue residence permits to long-term residents, valid for at least five years and if required, upon application, automatically renewed on expiry.

Annex 1 shows that the lowest fees for issuing an EU long-term residence permit are in place in Belgium, where the basic fee for the permit is ~€15 and in Hungary (~€33), Spain (€41.62), Luxembourg (€50), Estonia (€63.91) and Romania (€88). In most of the (Member) States under review, the fees range between €100 and €200 (DE, MT, NL, PL, SK, SI and SE). The highest fees are in place in Greece (€300 - €900 depending on the duration of the residence permit), Bulgaria (~€500), Portugal (€331.30) and Italy (€273.50).

b. Permits issued in accordance with Directive 2003/86/EC (family reunification)

Council Directive 2003/86/EC on the right to family reunification determines the conditions under which family reunification is granted, as well as the rights of the family members concerned. In particular, article 13.2 of the Directive foresees that Member States issue a renewable residence permit to family members of at least one year. Article 15.1 of the Directive foresees that after five years of residence, and if no residence permit has been granted for other reasons, Member States must issue, upon application, an autonomous residence permit, independent of the sponsor, to the spouse or unmarried partner and to a child who has reached majority. Member States are allowed to levy charges for the issuance of such permits.

As shown in Annex 1, fees for such residence permits again vary significantly across Member States. The lowest costs are in place in Belgium (~€15) and Malta (€25), while Norway (€632), Greece (€150-€450), Bulgaria (~€272) and France (€260) have the highest fees. In a number of Member States, the fees are in the range €100 - €200 (DE, IT, PT, RO, SE and SK). In Cyprus, the fee for family reunification residence permit is €200 per application irrespective of the number of persons it covers.

c. Temporary residence permit issued to victims of trafficking in human beings and, when applicable, persons subject to facilitation of irregular immigration, in accordance with Directive 2004/81/EC

Council Directive 2004/81/EC defines the conditions for granting residence permits of limited duration to non-European Union (EU) nationals who are victims of human trafficking or (optionally) subjects of an action relating to the smuggling of people and who cooperate in the fight against these crimes.

The permit may be granted to non-EU nationals even if they have irregularly entered the territory of an EU country. Article 8 stipulates that the competent authorities are responsible for assessing whether the victim's presence is deemed necessary for the investigation or judicial proceedings, whether he/she has shown a clear intention to cooperate, and whether he/she has severed all relations with the suspected perpetrators. When these three conditions are fulfilled, and subject to public policy and national security, a residence permit of limited duration will be issued. The residence permit is valid for at least six months and may be renewed if the relevant conditions continue to be satisfied.

As presented in Annex 1, a number of Member States, residence permits for victims of trafficking in human beings, and where applicable, persons subject to facilitation of irregular immigration, are issued ex-officio with no fee (CZ, EE, EL, HU, LT, LV, NL, RO, SE, SK, NO). A number of Member States reported that fees are in place (BE, BG, ES, FR, DE, IT, LU, MT, PL). The lowest fees are applicable in Poland (€12) and Belgium (€15.20) for the issuance of the residence card) only; Italy (€16) and Malta (€25), while fees are highest in France (€260), Bulgaria (€250) and Germany (€100). (See Section 7 Conditions and criteria for exemptions from fees).

d. Permits issued for the purpose of study, pupil exchange, unremunerated trainees and au pairs issued in accordance with Directive 2004/114/EC

Council Directive 2004/114/EC determines the conditions of admission of third-country nationals for the purposes of studies, pupil exchange, unremunerated training or voluntary service. Only the rules for students are mandatory. The Directive foresees a set of general conditions (Art. 6) as well as specific conditions for students (Art. 7). Article 12 determines that a residence permit for a student shall be issued for at least one year and be renewable if the general and specific conditions continue to be met. Art. 20 states that Member States may require applicants to pay fees for the processing of applications.

As illustrated in Annex 1, fees pursuant to Directive 2004/114/EC range considerably among Member States with the lowest fees in Slovenia (€13 for pupils and volunteers and €66.54 for trainees and students) and the highest in Norway (€303 for all groups and €364 for apprentices) and the Netherlands (€304 for students). In the Netherlands, residence permits for students are granted for the duration of the study and thus, a renewal is not necessary during the studying period. Students applying for a temporary residence permit for the purpose of study are exempt from the administrative fee in the Slovak Republic.

e. Permits issued for the purpose of research issued in accordance with Directive 2005/71/EC

Council Directive 2005/71/EC creates a specific admission procedure for third-country nationals for the purposes of scientific research. The conditions for admission are laid down in Article 7, while Article 8 determines that the residence permit shall be issued for a period of at least one year if the conditions are met, and be renewable if the conditions continue to be met. Recital 21 states that Member States should have the right to charge applicants for the processing of applications.

Fees applied to the issuance of this category of permits significantly vary across Member States, from €15.20 in Belgium up to €304 in the Netherlands and €303 plus €36 cost of the residence card in Norway. In some Member States the fees include the cost of a residence card and other fees (BE, BG, EE, FR, DE, EL, HU, IT, LV, LU, MT, NL, PL, PT, RO, SK, SE) while a few others charge only administrative duties (RO). In Slovak Republic no fees are applied for the permit. In Germany and Greece the fees change depending on the duration of the permit. For example, in Germany the cost is 10% higher if the permit is issued with a validity of more than a year and Greece requires a fee of €150 per year of research contract of the applicant.

f. EU Blue Cards, issued in accordance with Directive 2009/50/EC, including for family members falling under the scope of this Directive.

Council Directive 2009/50/EC on the conditions of entry and residence of third-country nationals for the purposes of highly qualified employment (the EU 'Blue Card Directive') facilitates access to the labour market and entitles holders to socio-economic rights and favourable conditions for family reunification and mobility within the EU. In particular, Article 7 of the Directive foresees that a third-country national who has applied and fulfils the requirements set out in Art. 5 and for whom the competent authorities have taken a positive decision in accordance with Article 8 shall be issued with an EU Blue Card. Member States are allowed to levy charges for the issuance of the 'EU Blue Card' permit.

Fees again vary widely, the lowest fees are provided in Belgium, where the basic fee for the permit is ~€15, while the highest fees are in Bulgaria (€480) and Netherlands (€861). Medium values are, for example, in Slovenia and Hungary which apply a fee of €60; Czech Republic, Estonia¹¹, Poland and Germany around €100; finally, the fee in France, Italy, Portugal and Sweden is over €200. In some cases (e.g. HU and SK) the fees slightly vary depending on whether the application is made in the Member State or abroad, through a Diplomatic mission.

g. Permits falling under the scope of "Single Permit" Directive 2011/98/EU

Directive 2011/98/EU (so called "Single Permit Directive") became operational in the Member States at the latest on 25th December 2013. Article 10 refers to fees and states that "Member States may require applicants to pay fees, where appropriate, for handling applications in accordance with this Directive. The level of such fees shall be proportionate and may be based on the services actually provided for the processing of applications and the issuance of permits."

This Directive applies to certain residence permits issued under EU law (e.g. family members admitted under family reunification who have access to the labour market, students who have access to the labour market, researchers, EU Blue Card holders) as well as national residence permits giving access to the labour market, and excludes a number of specific categories of workers (such as posted workers, seasonal workers, intra corporate transferees, self-employed persons and EU long term residents).

As illustrated in Annex 1, the lowest fees for issuing an EU long-term residence permit are in place in Luxembourg (€50), Hungary (~€60) and Estonia (€63.91). In most of the 22 Member States under review, the fees range between €100 and €200 (DE, FR, LV, MT, PL, SK). The highest fees are in place in Portugal (~€300), Bulgaria (~€500) and the Netherlands (€760 for seasonal workers, €861 for all others).

¹¹ In Estonia, for family members of EU Blue Card holder, residence permit cost 63.91 euro.

5. FEES FOR RENEWAL AND REPLACEMENT OF RESIDENCE PERMITS

While renewal involves the reissuing of an expired residence permit, replacement is the substitution of a lost or damaged residence permit document.

Fees for permit renewal/replacement also follow different rules in each Member State. Such rules usually apply to all kind of permits, with very few exceptions. Some Member States require higher fees for renewal depending on the duration of the extension (DE, EL, FR); in others the amount to be paid is the same as for the first issuance (EE, LU, PL, SE); finally, some Member States impose only administrative fees or lower fees than for the first permit (HU, PT, SK).

Among Member States that apply a fee for the replacement of the permit where lost or destroyed, some apply the same costs and fees as for initial issuance (LT, LU, PL, SE), while others apply lower fees (FR, HU, LV, NL, PT).

In Poland, in the event of the wrongful loss or wrongful destruction of selected residence documents¹², the fee for the replacement is increased up to 300%.

In Slovak Republic, the fee changes according to when the replacement is requested and to the urgency of the procedure. In this regard, only 9 Member States provide for a "fast-track" procedure; of these, 5 apply a higher fee (BE, BG, EE, LT, LV) which ranges from twice (EE, LT) to 7 times the standard fee (BENL, SI, SE do not charge additional fees for a faster procedure).

6. FEES FOR ISSUANCE OF NATIONAL RESIDENCE PERMITS

Fees of specific national residence permits were reported by 13 Member States (BG, EE, HU, IE, LT, LU, NL, PL, PT, RO, SK, SI, SE).

The fees applied vary significantly from one Member State to the other. Lower fees reported are in Hungary for long-stay seasonal workers visa (€40); Luxembourg applies the standard fee of €50 for all kinds of permits. For example, in the Netherlands, the fees for permits for Turkish nationals exercising rights under the EEC-Turkey Association Agreement and their family members amount at €53. In Poland fees for temporary residence permits amount to ~€95 and those for permanent residence permit to ~€168. Around €100 are the fees applying to study exchange and temporary visitors in Sweden. In Slovak Republic the lowest fees are for seasonal work permit (€33). In Ireland, a fee of €300 is charged in respect of each immigration certificate of registration issued to third-country nationals. In addition, there are prescribed fees for investors (€750), entrepreneurs (€350) and atypical workers (€250). Fees for long-term residency in Ireland amount to €500. Higher fees generally apply to entrepreneurs with a range going from €~140 to €1,266 (EE, LV, NL, SK, SE) with the top highest in Portugal, where they amount to €5,662.

7. CONDITIONS AND CRITERIA FOR EXEMPTIONS FROM FEES

Exemptions from residence permit fees are in place in a number of Member States (DE, EE, EL, HU, LT, LV, LU, NL, PL, PT, RO, SE, SK) and Norway.

- ★ Beneficiaries of international protection (DE, EE, HU, FI, IE, IT, LT, LU, NL, PL, PT, SE): In a number of (Member) States, beneficiaries of international protection are exempt from residence permit fees. For example in Hungary, national legislation specifies a number of categories of TCNs granted a residence permit on humanitarian grounds, including recognised stateless persons; person authorized based on the principle of *non-refoulement*¹³; persons who have cooperated with the authorities in a crime investigation and have provided significant assistance to gather evidence; asylum applicants; unaccompanied minors and persons who was employed under exploitative work conditions.
- ★ Victims of trafficking in human beings: Residence permits for victims of trafficking in human beings, and where applicable, persons subject to facilitation of irregular immigration, are issued ex-officio with no fee (EE, EL, FI, HU, LT, LV, NL, RO, SE, SK, NO).
- ★ Third-country nationals who cannot be returned and/or are granted tolerated stay (NL, LT) or residence permit due to humanitarian reasons (PL).

- ★ Persons who are unable to pay the state fee (EE) and persons dependent on public support (DE);
- ★ Spouses, widows, widowers, civil partners and surviving civil partners of national citizens and spouses and dependants of EU nationals (IE);
- ★ Third-country nationals who are under 18 years old of age at the time of registration (IE, IT, SK);
- ★ On the basis of bilateral agreements (DE, FI, LT, PL, PT). For example, in Portugal, all the nationals from countries belonging to Community of Portuguese-speaking countries¹⁴, except East Timor, are exempt from fees or only pay a small issuance fee (€ 16.10);
- ★ Excpetions to particular nationalities of third-country nationals (PL). In Poland, all long-stay visas (D-type) are issued for free to citizens of Belarus and Moldova.
